

FRENCH FRUIT

IDIOMS

BLUE  TRAVEL

“être haut comme trois pommes”

Literally: to be as high/tall as three apples
Meaning: to be short

“se fendre la poire”

Literally: to split (open) the pear
Meaning: to have a good laugh

“mi-figue, mi-raisin”

Literally: half fig, half grape
Meaning: Something both good and bad at the same time, lukewarm, ambiguous

“ramener sa fraise”

Literally: to bring (back) one's strawberry
Meaning: to interrupt a conversation, or give your opinion that nobody asked for

“couper la poire en deux”

Literally: to cut the pear in half
Meaning: to compromise, meet halfway

“J'ai la banane”

Literally: I have the banana
Meaning: I feel great, in a good mood

“être une bonne poire”

Literally: to be a good pear
Meaning: someone who is too naive and nice, gullible

“tomber dans les pommes”

Literally: to fall into the apples
Meaning: to faint, pass out

“J'ai la pêche”

Literally: I have the peach
Meaning: I feel physically great, energised

“prendre le melon”

Literally: to take the melon
Meaning: to be arrogant, or 'big-headed'